EVENING CONCLUSION

SONG BY RABINDRANATH TAGORE

What wind is it that sways my thoughts
As my mind swings in aimless joy?
From the heavy clouds new in the heart's sky
It is raining, raining showers of pleasure.
I cannot see her, oh, I cannot,
Moment to moment I only hear her in my mind.
An anklet plays unseen on her invisible feet--
It jingles runu, runu, runu, runu.
A secret dream spreads
Across the new blue -- untouched edge of the sky.
In this rainy wind goes flying in the sky
Her shadowy disheveled hair.
It bewilders my mind, oh,
With the faraway sweet smell of Ketaki flower wet in water.
