THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

O say can you see,
by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed
at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched,
were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare,
the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
that our Flag was still there.
O say does that Star-spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

Lyrics by Francis Scott Key, 1814

Music by John Stafford Smith, 1780

Adopted as the National Anthem of the United States in 1931

ALMA MATER

On the rolling plains of Dixie
'Neath the sun kissed sky
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
Banners high.

To thy name we'll sing thy praise
From the hearts that love so true
And pledge to thee our loyalty
The ages through.

We hail thee, Auburn, and we vow
To work for thy just fame,
And hold in memory as we do now
Thy cherished name.

Composed by Bill Wood, 1924

Academic Honors

Student Graduation Marshal

The Dean selects as marshal a student who has provided distinguished service to their school. They are identified by the orange honor drape.

Honorary Apparel of Graduates

Member of Phi Delta Chi Pharmaceutical Fraternity	maroon/gold cords
Member of Phi Lambda Sigma Pharmacy Leadership Society	green/gold cords
Member of Rho Chi Pharmacy Honor Society	medallions
Member of Harrison School of Pharmacy Ambassador Program	orange cords

Academic Regalia

Academic regalia worn during graduation is based on attire from the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were being established. Academic dress and accoutrements have been used in the United States since colonial times. To maintain tradition and recognition of academic regalia, little has changed in the symbolism of pattern and color since the Middle Ages. In 1895, an intercollegiate commission adopted a standardized code for the use of academic gowns, hoods, and caps, which included regulation of style and materials. Colors were prescribed to represent different fields of learning. Since then, few revisions have been made to the code, which is followed by the majority of colleges and universities in the United States, including Auburn University.

Gowns

Except for a few universities, academic gowns are all black. The bachelor's gown is the simplest of the three types. The master's gown is similar but has sleeves with an extra-long extension. Because it represents the highest degree, the doctoral gown is fuller throughout and has pleated bell-shaped sleeves. It is trimmed with a velvet band that circles the neck and descends the front, and it has velvet bars on the sleeves.

Hoods

Hoods were a common, practical item in the Middle Ages. They have endured as the sign of a scholar, losing their original function as a hood, but gaining symbolism through color and material. Master's hoods are edged in velvet in the color of the candidate's major field. The hood's satin lining shows Auburn University's official colors. A doctoral hood is longer and larger than the master's. A doctor of philosophy's hood has dark blue velvet-bound edges and the doctor of pharmacy has olive green. The orange and blue satin lining shows that the degree was conferred at Auburn University. The faculty who march in the academic processional show a range of colors marking their degrees and institutions.

The traditional rule for hoods is that a candidate for a degree should not wear the hood until the degree is conferred. However, at Auburn University, master's degrees are conferred en masse and degree candidates wear hoods throughout the ceremony. Recipients of the doctoral degree are hooded during the ceremony. These candidates do not wear the hood in the academic processional, but receive the hood when the degree is conferred.

Caps and Tassels

The black mortar board is the typical headwear worn; some faculty have black tams. All caps have tassels. Faculty and candidates for master's and doctoral degrees wear gold tassels. Candidates earning a degree in pharmacy have olive-colored tassels to represent their field of study. Candidates begin the ceremony with the tassels on the right front side; after all degrees are conferred, they are instructed to move the tassel to the left side.

Stoles, Cords, and Medals

In addition to the orange drape worn by Student Marshals, some graduates wear regalia signifying academic achievement or membership in organizations, honor societies, and leadership programs. Students graduating summa sum laude, magna cum laude, or cum laude are announced when the degree is conferred.

Gonfalons

Gonfalons are banners that originated in medieval Italy to identify a state or office. In Auburn University commencements, each college and school is represented by its own gonfalon, which is carried into the ceremony by a student marshal, who is selected from the graduating class.
