Faculty Participation in University Governance

Faculty members at Auburn University are involved to a significant degree in the formulation and review of institutional policies which affect the academic and professional welfare of the University and the Faculty. This involvement is achieved primarily through the organizations of the University Faculty and the University Senate, which are described in the University Faculty Constitution and the University Senate Constitution. University policy concerning the academic functioning of the University is adopted with the participation of the elected representatives of the University Faculty.

Faculty Volunteering

We are currently seeking volunteers for all committees.

The University Senate is established with the belief that members of the University community who are involved in the day-to-day life of the University should participate in the formulation of policies affecting the faculty and the academic life of the institution. The Senate provides a vehicle through which such collective intelligence can be directed toward promoting the well-being of the University. All faculty members are encouraged to participate in the University governance process.

To volunteer for Senate Committees or University Committees, please click on the 'Volunteer for Committees' button below.

The S and U designates whether this is a Senate or a University Committee.

This link will take you to the description of the committee. See next page.

The screenshot shows two rows of a committee selection interface. Each row consists of a 'Committee:' label, a dropdown menu, a 'Committee Information' link, and a 'Trash' icon. The first row has a dropdown menu with 'S - Faculty Research Committee' selected. The second row has a dropdown menu with 'U - Post Tenure Review Committee' selected. Below each dropdown menu is a 'Comments:' label and a text input field. The first row's comment field contains 'testing site', and the second row's comment field contains 'testing'. Annotations include yellow circles around the 'Committee:' labels, the dropdown menus, the 'Committee Information' links, and the 'Trash' icons. Arrows point from external text blocks to these elements.

Click Trash can if you no longer want this committee selection. It will be removed from your choices.

This is the maximum number of committees you are willing to be considered to serve on THIS YEAR ONLY.

Please consider any committees you currently are a member of. HOW MANY ADDITIONAL COMMITTEES IS THE NUMBER YOU WOULD USE HERE.

Please do not assume that Rules Committee members will know what other committees you are currently serving on.

It is best if you select your choices in the order of preference you are willing to serve. No one is guaranteed a first choice, but Rules Committee does try to honor your preference.

It is very important to select the maximum number of committees that you would be willing to serve on in a given year and possibly selected for membership for a 3-year term. Each year is considered independently. If you currently already serve on 2 committees and your rotation date will not end in July of the year you are volunteering and that is the maximum you are willing to serve on, then don't volunteer for more committees this year.
