For additional questions, please call Haven Hart in the Auburn University Career Center at 334-844-3867.

Exempt vs. Non-Exempt

Exempt and non-exempt are two terms most people have heard but may not fully understand. One major misconception is that a person can simply choose whether a particular position is classified as exempt or non-exempt. Many people believe that simply by paying a salary and not an hourly wage that an employee is exempt from receiving overtime pay. Neither of these statements is true.

The terms exempt and non-exempt come from a federal law – the Fair Labor Standards Act or FLSA. This law has many provisions including minimum wage provisions, recordkeeping, child labor standards, and overtime provisions. It is from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act that we find the terms exempt and non-exempt. The law requires employers to classify positions as either exempt or non-exempt and provides the guidelines employers use to make such a determination. Non-exempt employees are entitled to overtime pay. Exempt employees are not entitled to overtime pay; hence, they are “exempt” from the overtime provisions of the law.

For non-exempt employees, the law provides for a minimum hourly wage, the maintenance of detailed records of hours worked, and overtime pay of one and one-half the regular rate for work in excess of 40 hours during a seven day pay period. Public institutions, such as Auburn University, are authorized to award compensatory time off at the premium rate equal to one and one-half hour for each overtime hour worked in lieu of pay.

Reminder of Nepotism Policy
As summer approaches, we would like to take this opportunity to remind all of our supervisors that the University nepotism policy not only applies to our regular employees, it applies to our student and TES employees as well.

Recently, as a result of policy reviews in connection with preparing for our upcoming SACS accreditation, the nepotism policy was revised to bring it in line with comparable policies at the State level. Therefore, in addition to spouses, children, grandchildren, etc. and associated steps and halves, other family relationships which we must take into consideration going forth include aunts, uncles, and first cousins.

The revised policy prohibits employment of these family members where a direct supervisory relationship is in place, or where a family member is in a position of authority to make decisions regarding work responsibilities, salary, schedule, performance evaluations, and other terms and conditions of employment as outlined in the policy.

The official policy can currently be found at: https://sites.auburn.edu/admin/universitypolicies/Policies/AuburnUniversityNepotismPolicy.pdf
This policy will be incorporated into the Human Resources Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual along with other revisions currently under review.

Requirements of Alabama Child Labor Law

During the summer months, a number of our local youth start looking for jobs with the University. The state of Alabama requires employers to purchase Certificates to allow us to hire minors ages 14-17. These Certificates are purchased under the auspices of Temporary Employment Services; therefore, employees in these age groups can only be hired thru TES.

For any department wishing to place a minor under the age of 16, an additional form is required to be completed by the student's school. This is the Alabama Child Labor Eligibility Form, and it can be found on our Forms web site at:

http://www.auburn.edu/administration/human_resources/forms/index.html

Minors under the age of 18 are restricted as to the type of work they can perform; minors under 16 have even stricter restrictions. You may access the State's brochure covering the Alabama Child Labor Law at the following link:
