Project Name or Project/ Program Title	Peer Stress in Preadolescence: Psychophysiological and Coping Responses	Activity Codes (NAICS or NTEE-NPC) (up to 10)
Quarterly Activities/ Project Description	Six graduate research assistants were trained to conduct the lab protocol, collect psychophysiological data, and interview participants. Computers, physiological data acquisition equipment, questionnaires, and other lab supplies were purchased and utilized. Preadolescent participants, parents, and teachers were recruited for the study. To date, 77 preadolescents (53% female, 46% ethnic minority; and one parent and teacher per preadolescent) have participated in the project. Preadolescents and parents visited our research lab to complete questionnaires about school, social, and psychological adjustment, and preadolescents participated in a lab protocol designed to simulate peer stress experiences. Physiological, observational, and interview data were collected during the lab protocol. Questionnaires were delivered to teachers after we obtained parental permission to contact teachers. Data for all Cohort 1 participants were entered. Observational coding (emotion, social skills, coping strategies) and analysis of Cohort 1 data is underway. Two abstracts based on data from Cohort 1 participants were accepted by the Society for Research in Child Development (SRCD) for presentation at the 2011 conference. These presentations will be delivered at SRCD in April 2011. Cohort 1/Time 2 data collection is now underway and proceeding as planned.
