DEEPWATERHORIZONOILSPILL - ALABAMA ROAD TO RESTORATION

OCTOBER 5-6, 2010 - ORANGE BEACH, ALABAMA

A forum on integrated recovery strategies for the Gulf Coast.

AUBURN UNIVERSITY
CENTER FOR GOVERNMENTAL SERVICES

The Deepwater Horizon oil spill resulted in millions of gallons of oil gushing into the Gulf of Mexico causing economic and ecological damage to the Gulf States – the full extent of which is not yet known. In an effort to aid in the process of restoration for Alabama and the region as a whole, Auburn University is hosting a forum, the first in a series, bringing together stakeholders from the local and scientific communities, the private sector, non-profits, and local, state and federal resources. This will result in a collection of current needs and ideas that might be implemented to help accelerate recovery during this disaster and in others.

The mission of this event is to convene individuals who will play a significant role in the restoration and renewal of the economy, environment and communities affected by the damage caused by the massive Deepwater Horizon oil spill catastrophe. The successful recovery of the Gulf of Mexico will depend on the creation of a vibrant, long-term dialogue among Gulf stakeholders and the institutions, organizations and policy makers who will be expected to identify and provide regulatory and other assistance for the restoration. Creating a collegial foundation for this dialogue will lead to consensus-driven research and a sound and future-sensitive strategy for the Gulf Coast.

We invite you to register for and participate in the Alabama Road to Restoration forum on October 5th and 6th at the Perdido Beach Resort in Orange Beach, Alabama.
