About this Course . . .

Strategies for Small Town Development is a two-day course offered by the Economic & Community Development Institute (ECDI), a partnership of Auburn University and the Alabama Cooperative Extension System.

On May 1-2, 2008, ECDI brings leading economic and community development experts to The Hotel at Auburn University and Dixon Conference Center to present ideas and innovative solutions for small town development.

Course participants will be given opportunities to ask questions and to engage in constructive dialogue about the challenges, possibilities, and potential of small town development in Alabama.

Course Format

ECDI will provide each participant with a course CD containing presentations and reference materials.

Alabama Prosperity Forum

With over 20 years experience in economic and community development education and almost 1,000 alumni across Alabama, ECDI is the state's leading provider of economic and community development education.

Building upon the success of its annual two-week Intensive Economic Development Training Course, ECDI recently introduced the Alabama Prosperity Forum, a new series of short courses focusing on areas in which Alabama economic and community development professionals have expressed a desire for more training.

Location and

Accommodations

The course will be held at The Hotel at Auburn University and Dixon Conference Center, located at 241 South College Street in Auburn.

Hotel room reservations are the responsibility of the individual participant and are not included in the course registration fee.

ECDI has reserved a block of rooms at The Hotel at Auburn University for Wednesday, April 30th, and Thursday, May 1st. A group room rate of $95.00 per night is available for course participants through April 21st.

Please call the hotel at 1-800-228-2876.
