

AUBURN UNIVERSITY
DISTANCE LEARNING

Distance Learning Specialist

The Office of Distance Learning & Outreach Technology at Auburn University is seeking candidates for the position of Distance Learning Specialist. The incumbent will consult with faculty to design and develop appropriate media and instructional methods for use in distance courseware; design and implement, for delivery in various technology formats, professional development and student support offerings related to distance pedagogies; and serve as a liaison with other offices involved in distance offerings.

Minimum Qualifications:

Master's degree in Instructional Systems Design, Instructional Technology, or related field and two years relevant experience. Requires knowledge of instructional design principles, skill in multimedia production, comfort with utilizing new hardware and software tools, and the ability to manage multiple projects and deadlines. The ability to communicate clearly and professionally is essential.

Preferred Qualifications:

Doctorate degree and experience teaching online is strongly preferred. Qualified candidates with an agricultural science background will be given preference.

Salary is negotiable and commensurate with experience.

The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time appointment is scheduled to begin and continue working legally for the proposed term of employment and be able to communicate effectively in English.

Applications: Deadline for applications is March 7, 2008. Anticipated start date is April 14, 2008. A resume, letter of interest, and three references are required for consideration. In addition, applicants are encouraged to submit work samples. Please submit all documents (electronic submission preferred) to:

Dr. Monica DeTure
Chair, Search Committee
audl@auburn.edu
Office of Distance Learning & Outreach Technology
305 O.D. Smith Hall
Auburn University, Alabama 36849

Auburn University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.