Auburn University Summer Art Studio Intensive
June 24-29, 2012 | $650 | rising 10th, 11th, and 12th graders

Pursue excellence in your artwork in our spacious and well-appointed Department of Art studios in Biggin Hall, right off Toomer’s Corner and downtown Auburn. We offer an immersive course of instruction that will jumpstart and expand your art-making abilities. Taught by Auburn art professors and assisted by advanced art majors, participants get an in-depth look at how art is taught at Auburn while receiving individual attention as they participate in a series of exercises and projects, including: sketchbook-based creativity exercises; exploration of traditional and innovative approaches to drawing and painting; a ceramics focus with an overview of 3-D art; strategies of critique; portfolio development; and a behind the scenes look at the world of museum professions at the Jule Collins Smith Museum of Fine Art. In addition to their work in the studio, participants will experience campus life while residing in Auburn’s resident dormitories, eating at campus dining facilities, and enjoying evening social and recreational activities. Camp participants will have 24/7 counselor supervision.
