Developing Effective Partnerships

Thursday, December 7, 2017
1-2:30 p.m.
Auburn Chamber of Commerce
714 E. Glenn Avenue, Auburn, AL 36831

Dr. Mark Wilson, Director of Civic Learning Initiatives in the College of Liberal Arts at Auburn University, will discuss “From Partnerships to Collaboration: Managing Relationships for the Public Good.” In a participatory, conversational format, attendees will reflect on strategic partnerships within their organization’s ecosystem and develop strategies that result in deeper collaboration and identity-shaping outcomes.

Dr. Mark Wilson is Director of Civic Learning Initiatives and the Caroline Marshall Draughon Center for the Arts & Humanities in the College of Liberal Arts at Auburn University. He holds degrees from the University of Mobile (B.A. Religion), McAfee School of Theology at Mercer University (Master of Divinity), and Auburn University (Ph.D. History).

His teaching duties include Introduction to Community and Civic Engagement, as well as practicum courses which provide living-learning experiences for students in rural, Alabama communities and beyond. He has coordinated contracts and grants with the National Endowment for the Arts, National Endowment for the Humanities, Appalachian Regional Commission, Kettering Foundation, David Mathews Center for Civic Life, Alabama Humanities Foundation, and others. Wilson is a member of the Board of Directors for the National Issues Forums Institute.

Faculty, staff and non-profit agencies are invited to attend. Seating is limited; Contact Anton Ware, alw0099@auburn.edu to reserve a seat.

This event is free and open to the public.
