

III. Biogrant Program Objectives

The objective of this program is to facilitate Auburn University faculty in making significant advances and increasing their regional and national competitiveness in the biological sciences.

It is expected that faculty receiving such grants will use the funds and/or results from research supported by these funds to leverage additional research support from industry, and private and federal agencies.

These funds can be used for exploratory research to test new ideas, initiation of research by new faculty, or re-direction of faculty research.