1. Consider the following problem: find $x$ in some appropriate interval $[a, b]$ such that \[ e^{-x} - x = 0. \]

a. What are reasonable values for $a$ and $b$?
b. Convert the above root finding problem to a fixed point problem in at least two ways (that is, find at least two distinct fixed point problems which are equivalent to the given root finding problem).