JOB SUMMARY

Reporting to the Janet L. Nolan Director of Curatorial and Educational Affairs, the Assistant Director, Education, Engagement & Learning leads the design and delivery of exceptional and innovative student-centered experiences, faculty engagement and public programs for the Jule Collins Smith Museum of Fine Art, the university's on-campus teaching museum. Through research, outreach and instruction, the position works collaboratively with museum colleagues and stakeholders to facilitate connections with faculty, staff, and students to produce curricular and co-curricular engagement with museum exhibitions and collections. Identifies and develops projects that connect museum programs with teaching and learning at Auburn, the university community, and beyond.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Manages the museum's Education, Engagement, and Learning staff. Manages related budgets, grant funds, and gifts. Ensures contracts are completed and all obligations are met, the contracted visitors' experiences, including travel and other hospitality details, are smoothly managed, and all requisite payments paperwork and collaboration within the museum, across campus, and beyond are handled in a collegial, timely and efficient manner.
- Oversees and develops the museum's education, engagement, and learning offerings aligned with its mission to actively engage new, diverse, and broad audiences both on and off-site. Conceives, co-develops, and facilitates museum engagements for university faculty, staff, students; PreK-12 and family education; public practice/community partnerships. Emphasizes cross-disciplinary, co-creation, and hands-on learning projects to cultivate notions of inclusion, life skills, emotional intelligence, and well-being to expand the understanding of art's impact on the public sphere. Incorporates new models of cultural participation, artistic practice, potential impact, and the history of museum education that also utilizes technology, tools, and an experimental social environment. Utilizes best practices in the fields of museum education, art-based pedagogies and visitor studies, incorporating multigenerational learning and participatory experiences that foster critical and creative thinking skills, experimentation, and global competence.
- In partnership with other arts, cultural, educational, non-profit, governmental, and civic organizations, conceives, co-develops, manages, and facilitates meaningful community-led museum programs for diverse audiences in places such as libraries, hospitals, medical training facilities, health care and wellness centers, mental health support organizations, judicial and other law enforcement agencies, military and veterans support organizations, and civic and governmental agencies connected to housing, parks, and recreation, and community gardens. Increases visual literacy and cultural competency that addresses shifting demographics, elevating civic dialogue, and encourages deep reciprocal relationships with our museum objects.
- Initiates, facilitates, and participates in research projects and various forms of public engagement that meaningfully integrate works of art with education, civic engagement, community development, equity, and

RESPONSIBILITIES

- inclusion. Actively contributes to rethinking presentations and understandings of the museum’s collection to incorporate community voices and perspectives. Develops projects with artists whose work is situated in and activated by the public realm. Positions the museum for the public and artists together, especially by using its green space to create an alternative public park--a type of cultural commons with social interaction and creative participation as its guiding philosophies.
- Conceives, co-develops, and facilitates interactive online educational content and interpretive tools for the museum website as well as other digital platforms and formats. In collaboration with web and digital media staff and others, embraces social media, digital, and technology opportunities such as crowd sourcing, augmented reality, and virtual art experiences.
- Monitors effectiveness, gathering and analyzing qualitative and quantitative statistics, and other engagement metrics for use in evaluation, reports, and grants and funding proposals. Integrates data collection, measurement, and assessment into museum processes and programs. Ensures timely and collegial responses to questions and feedback from visitors and others.
- Represents the museum and makes appropriate contributions to professional communities and wider publics, including local, regional, and statewide community organizations; museum and university committees; and national and international scholarly and professional organizations through various public programs and other professional development workshops, seminars, and conferences.
